"JIMMY" GIBBS HAS RETIRED

There was a change in personnel in the local branch of the Navy League last week. James R. Gibbs, resigned as president of the branch and was succeeded by Archie Chivers.

Mr. Gibbs, "Jimmy" to me, has given in the last two years, not only his time but his money, for the furtherance of the Navy League. He has been an indefatigable worker, and a man whose whole heart and soul was in the job that he was doing.

In stepping out from control of the Grimsby branch, he has left a well trained corps of assistants to carry on. Archie Chivers will be president. "Buddy" Shafer will be in charge of Ditty Bags; Marie Vocges will have charge of several important posts and Mrs. Coxall will be in charge of knitting.

C.C.F. CARRIES SASKATECHWAN

Last Thursday's election in Saskatchewan went C.C.F. That is the best thing that has ever happened in Canada.

the cradle of C.C.F.'sm, suffer the tortures of the C.C.F. policy. Why should any other province have to suffer for them.

Saskatchewan, since the day it was changed into a province from a territory, has bled the rest of the Dominion white, with their deman is. Those days are gone forever. They can now start and bleed themselves. See how far they will get.

The only unfortunate part of the whole situation is, that the newly elected Premier Douglas was originally a printer and a linetype operator. I always knew that any manconnected with a newspaper was crazy to begin with, but I never thought that a high class linetype operator would ever get as nuts as Douglas is.

I am cambling all the dough in the world that there will never be a C.C.F. policy put in o effect in Saskatchewar. If there is, God Help Saskatchewan. And I don't think he is going to spend as much money on that province as the rest of the Dominion has

CENSORSHIP IS CORRECT

Many people fail to realize the value of strict censorship on newspapers . During the past four months The Independent has been in hot water several times because we were unable to print certain items of news regarding the fighting forces. Our explanation that the censor had clamped down on those types of news items was not always accepted. as a fact.

In several cases Ye Ed. was told to his face that he was not telling the truth. Inc. people taking the stand that the censor pays no attention to weekly newspapers and what they print. They believing that the enemy agents pay no attention to the small country weekly. In this they are wrong. Many an item cailed from a weekly paper could do untold harm if it reached Germany or Japan and here are plenty of cases on record where they did reach Berlin and Tokio.

Nobody knows just where a newspaper will land and who will read it. Here is an example. In our issue of May 25th, there appeared in our "Mainly For Milady column a short item under the caption, "Women Wash For The Army". This story concerned the great work being done by the women of Switzerland, in helping to keep that country's neutrality.

On June 10th The Independent received a letter from the "Official Information Bureau of Switzerland, 475 Fifth avenue, New York," asking that a copy of the May 25th issue containing this story be mailed to them.

We do not know how they learned of this story being printed in The Independent. Suffice to say that they did know, which all goes to prove that censorship on the news and advertising columns of weekly papers is a correct procedure.

CRAVING FOR SOMETHING NEW

Solomor, is reported to have said that there was "no new thing under the sun." He said that about three thousand years ago, and it might be argued that if he lived today he would change his mind. But there must have been many new things in Solomon's day. Solomon's Temple at Jerusalem was brand new; it was one of the wonders of the then known world. There were so many new and marvelous things in Solomon's kingdom that when the Queen of Sheba visited the Ling and was shown around, she gasped with amazement and exclaimed "The half has not been told me!"

Even Solomon would be amazed if its were to visit the world of today with all the marvelous scientific and mechanical inventions which are commonplaces of our time. But Solomon was not thinking of new inventions, and he would probably say the same thing today, that the eye is not satisfied with seeing airplanes, nor the ear filled with listening to radios. So far as the radio broadcasts are concerned, many people would agree with Solomon when he said, "The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be; and that which is done is that which shall be

An insatiable craving for something new has been characteristic of mankind down through the ages. In ancient Athens it was a craving for new ideas, for we are told that on Mars' hill "all the Athenians and strangers which were there spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell, or to hear some new thing." It is the same today with our "new orders," which are really not new at all. Emerson well said that "Piato makes havor of all our originalities." And Plato was probably not entirely original.

All of which is by way of leading up to a Pastoral Letter issued by Archbishop Owen of Toronto in September, 1939, which is as follows:

"Someone wrote to me today saying. Let Saskatchewan, the hirthplace and 'Can you give me any new light in the world situation? Any new light I have is a very old light. It comes from faith in God. He is working his purpose out in history of the Nations. I have never found anywhere in the New Testament any indication that this life here on earth, either individual or national, was to be an easy thing. I find no promises of security, safety or ease here in this world, but I find promises of grace and guidence, and the assurance of the ultimate triumph of goodness to those who serve Him. You will agree that all this a very old. It is, also, new enough for use toray. I pray that we may all have grace to find it so."

HERE LIES A MAN.

WAY BACK WHEN

Frank Pairborn, Jr.

Many years ago before they gave portically beautiful names to streets they usually named then after the man who lived in the brick home on the corner where the street crossed the main thoroughfare, or after the kind-hearted citizen who so genercomity domailed the right of way. If they couldn't and anyone to christen it after, they called it Main street and let it-go at that. For that reason mearly every town and every city has its main street, although in many cases it is far from being it's main

However it happens that Grimsby's Main street is her main street. This particular street at one time was an Indian trail that followed the curves of the mountain from where Hamilton is now located to the Magaza river.

It is interesting to note how the various streets of this town were named. Kerman avenue is so called because the late John Merman built the first house upon it; for some time he operated the green bouses now at the rear of the residence.

Livinguton avenue derived its name from las. A. Livingston who was reeve of the village at the time of the controversy between the Council and the H. C & B. regarding the railway's right of way through the town. He was instrumental in getting the company to open a way from Kerman Avenue to Palmer's Hill through what was then a corn field and turn the deed of the road over to the town, the company retaining running rights. At that time there were three old frame buildings between the Rosebrugh home and the home occupied by Frank McPhail. These were torn down and Grimsby acquired what has now become a heavily travelled highway. After this street was opened the matter of a name for it was brought before the Council. They quickly disposed of the perplexity by unanimously deciding to call the street Livingston

Ridd Avenue is as everyone knows, so called because W. W. Midd quick to grasp the fact that Grimsley was certain to extend its limits, opened a sub-division which rapidly great giving to the town Kidd and St. Andrew's Averses, also Bolton. St. Andrew's Avenue being named after the parish church and Bolton street in the honor of the late Bolton Flend who at one time was vicer of St. Ab-

Marray street, nessed after the Rev. Mr. Merray who for a number of years was the paster of the Presbyterian Church was the cause of much litigatian before it materialized . The question of opening up the road held are for nearly a dozen years and was the cause of many a verbal duck. The Prochyterian congregation were very hitterly opposed to its being opened, in the end to give a fitting finish to the fight it was named after the paster as a sort of

The next street as one travels east is Paten. street. So far no one has been found that can tell where this street derived its name, unless it was named after a family of that name who lived in or mear Beamsville, but none of the local old timers over revollect their living on this street or even in Granuby.

Robert L. Gibson who owned and operated several quarries in this vicinity about sixty years ago. The well known path that leads to the "point", that favorite beauty spot where one can see on a bright day Brock's monument at Queenston Heights, is the eld road down which the stone was drawn from the quarry which now long since ahandoned lies half way up the hilleide

""restain street is so termed because originalby it was only street that led up the mountain, Oak street only running a little past Elm street. Both of those streets derive their names, as one might readily imagine, from the splendid specimens of the respective trees which grew along them. The late

Augustus Cole gave the land for the extension of Oak street and the industrious village turned to, and in a series of "bees" cleared a readway through the property. Elm street did not always run across the "creek" and up Farrow's hill, for years it ended on the east side of the "forty" and its extension is a comparatively modern advance.

Many theories have been advanced as to whom Elizabeth street was named after, but so for the right derivation of the name has not been learned.

Many people wonder why it is that Depot street. which is called so because it leads to the G.T.R. depot becomes Outario street after one cremes the railroad. The reason for this is the fact that for many years Depot street did not cross the relirond. The late Beverly Robinson Nelles opened up Onterio street and named it after his brother Outario Nelles, Robinson street was named after Mr. Nelles who at one time owned the land in that neigherhood.

The street came into possession of the town through a controversy that arose between the Great Western Railway and the Village council, at the time that Mr. Nelles was endeavoring to open Ontario street across the railway tracks. Robinson was Mr. Nelles' second name. Mr. Nelles who was ever prominent in the progress of Grimsby affairs also mened up Lake St. which derives its name from its close proximity to the lake.

John street it seems was named after the late John Grout who was the first reeve of the village and for years was very active in the politics of the time. He conducted a foundry in the building that is now the home of The Independent. Adelaids str. of was named in honor of his sister the late Miss Adelaide Grout and Olive street that small street near what is now the Lakeviews Gardens was called after one of his daughters, Mrs Olive Berry, resident of the Village Inc.

Doran Avenue derived its mame from the late James Doraz who was on two occasions reeve of the village. "Squire oran as he was popularly called opened up the street and built the first house

Clarke street was named after another man who was prominent in the early politics of this town. the late W. F. Clurke, who had the distinction of having been seven times elected to occupy the racve's chair and was once warries of the county. This street originally only ran from Ontario into the hollow at the north end of Robinson street but the citizens realizing how convenient a through street would be in that neighbourhood got together and made a "bee" putting the road through to Maple avenue on the cast and Elizabeth street on the

There is no need to state why Maple avenue is so samed, for many of the splendid trees after which it was named still remain.

Victoria averse may not be a street of queenly appearance, still it has the honor of being called after the greatest of England's queens, It seems rather peculiar that in a town of so many fine streets a longer, wider and nicer street could not be found to commemorate the mesorary of the great Nelles Boulevard, the fines, street in Grimsby was named after the late Mrs. Adam Rutherford, owner of the furtherford arrivey, upon which it was built. Mrs. Rutherford, Infore her marriage being Mins Maria Nellos.

A man called on the edites and announced that his uncle had been taking the paper for 5 years.

Editor-That's fine. I hope he continues to do so.

. Man-Oh yes, he will. I want to tell you about him. He has always been a model of propriety. He has never touched liquor or tobacco. He has never used profanity. He has never been mixed up with women. He indulges in no vices and no excesses. And tomorrow he will celebrate his 80th birthday.

Fixing The Plumber

Plumbers are notoriously men who cannot be burried either to the job or on the job. None the less, a smart Toronto woman found a method for getting a plumber to her leaking water pipe in a hurry. She thought of it only after direct appeal had failed. She called plumber after plumber, but they all had important business elsewhere. At last, in desperation, she telephoned a plumber's wife and said, "I know your husband is a very busy man but we need him badly. You must have more influence with him than anybody else. Couldn't you do something? This appeal to a plumber's better half after appeals to his better nature had failed worked. He was over in less than an hour.

Crave Flower Seeds

Women no doubt will be surprised to learn that it would be a more profitable speculation to take flower and vegetable seeds into England than slik stockings. The price of vegetable seeds is controlled but there is a big dema id for them on the black market. Flowers being considered a luxury there is no ceiling for flower seeds and prices are 10 to 12 times pre-war values. Formerly there were 200 seeds in a five-cent packet. Now there aren't 20. And this is only the beginning. "There will inevitably be a big flower shortage next year," a big grower said recently. 'There is a scarcity of labor, for instance, and because of it many hundreds of acres of flower seeds have been lost. Unless there is more growing space for flowers, next year the seeds will he literally worth their weight in gold. "The situation is hard on June brides who want corsages. Flowers have gone up even more in value than the seeds. Iris sells for a shilling each and violets for $4 a doson. And rema are really sky-high.

Poor Man

One more marculine citadel has been stormed by today's girl. The theory that only tall, upstanding men of military appearance can look well as doormen has been discarded by a big New York hotel. If first impressions are all important, then the hotel employee who contacts the incoming guest at the curb has a big place in any hotel organization. This Broadway hostelry has entrusted those contact duties to a 20-year-old elevator girl. One attraction of the new job is the uniform. It has a navy topcost with bruss buttons and gold braid, a blue water to match, a powder blue skirt and a hat with the hotel name in letters. The wages, too, are not unattractive. She gets $26 a plus tips, which are estimated at three dollars a day. She has privilege of calling bell boys to help her with the heavy luggage, Ech she may have to lift from taxi to sidewalk, but it is doubtful if inything but a big trunk will worry her for she is five feet ten and nusky. The hotel is so pleased with her that it plans to take on eight other coorwomen to supervise other entrances.

Aboard a Hospital Ship

Life on a hospital ship in the Pacific is described by # California nurse. Catherine Shaw. The wounded were picked up not far from the firing line in South Sea battle lones and brought to a base hospital and sometimes to Australia. "Our trips back and forth," she mays, "took six to eight days. Until we had almost arrived we did not know which island was our destination. By the time we were anchored, the wounded began to arrive from shore. They were brought out on boats, barges, outriggers, anything that could float. The worst cases were brought first but the men always managed a smile through their black burns and bandages. As soon as the patients began comlag up the rope gangway, it was "rush, rush, rush" from the" The operating rooms which could handle four men at a time were in use day and night. The staff was divided into teams. One cleaned the men up. Another cut off clothing and prepared wounds for dressing. The third administered plasma, and the fourth waited on the surgeons. One nurse was assigned to the job taking temperatures and pulsus." Her advice to civilian girls is to become army nurses.

Prisoner Of War Packages

"When the ten millionth Red Cross prisoner-of war parcel went out from the central Ontario packing centre at Toronto last week, few Canadians had any real conception of the tremendous mass of supplies involved," F. L. J. Seldon, regional prices and supply representative of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said.

Packing the ten millionth parcel at the centre, which is one of five in Canada, means this centre alone has sent 16 fastion pounds of butter, 10 million pounds of jam, five million pounds of canned salm. five million pounds of sugar, thousands of pounds of ten and coffe ; plus chocolate bars, packages of raisins, tinned meat, packages of biscults and soap in the millions.

"Bouce people complain without gir g any thought to the reasons behind rationing and controlled distribution of food supplies at home," Mr. Seldon said, "But when these same people realize the enormous quantity of food required by the Red Cross each week for these percels alone, there are no complaints.

"Our prisoners-of-war in German and Japanese camps depend on us for the food and essentials to keep them alive. Whenever our butter ration is cut, we must renounber that there's a Canadian prisoner somewhere behind burbed wire waiting for his named of butter to come. This is one person we must never let down, a on if it involves some petty food sacrifices in our own kitchess."

Price Ceiling Set For Cherries

Ottawa, June 19 - The Prices Board tonight announced an order, effective immediately, establishing taxes from the public and are one of the most satisfactory. Not only price cellings on Canadian-grown is it sound logic that people who can afford to wager up "-rees should cherries of all types for the first contribute to government revenue, but the better seldom realises that time and setting cellings on cherhe is contributing. Rarely it ever occurs to losers after an afternoon ries imported during the period; of racing to slame the government in part for their losses, and the win-July 3 to Sept. 30.

The order brings cherries under the same price and mark-up control as now is in effect for most of vegetables, and the board said it will result in consumer prices "slightly lower" than those of last better who selects four winners in neven races is fortunate. Picking year but higher than those prevailing in 1942.

Growers' ceiling prices to shippers and wholesalers are set at $1.30 per six-quart flat and $3.50 per four-basket crate for black sweet cherries and 90 cents per six-quart flat and $2.50 per fourisanket crate for red sours. Percentage mark-ups are limited for shippers, wholesalers and retailers.

Growers' ceiling prices direct to consumers, f.o.b, abipping point, are $1.95 per six-quart flat and $5.23 per four-basket crate for black sweet cherries; $1.27 per sixquart flat and $3.81 per fourbasiset crate for red sours. Transprelation costs may be added for shipments to points oute then 15

The Story of Niagara Falls

- PROF. V. W. JACKSON -

The first white man to see the falls was wise enough to make an exact sketch from a fixed point. This was Father Hennepin in 1678, standing on Seminary hill. In 1764, another survey was made by Montessor. This showed a recession of 325 feet in 86 years, or over four feet per year. At this time the Canadian falls was most nearly horseshoe in shape, and became known as the Horseshoe falls.

Since then, the recession has been more rapid in the central portion. The Boundary Survey of 1819, showed it to be quite pointed, and receding at the rate of five feet per year. The survey of 1842 revealed more of the horseshoe shape, but the surveys of 1875 and 1876 showed the recurring tendency to recede fastest where the volume of water was most-in the middle. The survey of 1905 confirmed this, and the conservation of the "seshoe" and the beauty of both falls became an international problem, for the increasing volume of water drawn to the midrecession was draining the American Falls and spoiling the beauty of the Canadian Falls, which was becoming a central crevasse with two sheets of water facing each other, like the Victoria Falls in Africa:

To prevent this a million dollar submerged stone weir has been constructed a mile above the Horseshop Falls to divert more water over the American Falls, and raise the power level for Hydro one foot. This will increase the power capacity 50 per cent., and preserve the beauty of the falls. For five years I have been watching the progress of this enormous undertaking—the dropping of ten-ton blocks of stone from a steel cable between two steel towers-another fine example of international cooperation and good will.

Knowing the rate of recession since 1678, it is possible to visualize where the falls has been in the past. In 1492, the American and the Canadian Falls were practically one-Goat Island was just beginning to show been. At the time of Alfred the Great, there was no "merican Falls, or only a trickle at Prospect Point-the beginning of the American Falls, and the forming of Goat Island. The volume of water over these falls could never have been very great, as for six centuries it remained a straight sheet with very little recession until the epic crash of 1934 when a huge mass fell out of the middle.

At the time of Christ, the Falls would be about where the new Rainbow bridge is, and at the time of Moses (1492 S.C.) at the Railway Bridges and first suspension. At the time of the cavemen, the Falls would be somewhere in the buried gorge of St. David's between the whiripool and the now village of St. Drvid's, for this was the first Niagara gorye. But a great bull-lozer - the greatest of known buildosers - glaciers of the Ice Age, came along and scooped out the Great Lakes and shoved toulders over the 'andscape, and filled valleys, including the first Niagara gorge as far as the Whiripool. The river then had to take a new course - to the right and out by way of Lewiston. Thus was made that greatest of river turns—the Whiripool—which makes a complete loop, and out under itself-to the right and on its tem-
